

Rabbitt gets 7-year term

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Former Missouri House Speaker Richard J. Rabbitt was sentenced today to seven years in prison and fined $18,000 on 15 counts of extortion and mail fraud.

"I still maintain that I'm innocent and I intend to prove it," Rabbitt said following his sentencing by U.S. District Court Judge John F. Nangle.

Rabbitt said he plans to appeal his conviction.

Rabbitt could have received a total of 135 years in prison and fines totaling $51,000.

Rabbitt, once considered the second-most powerful man in Missouri government, was convicted July 28 by a jury of eight men and four women, which deliberated almost six hours following a two week trial.

The St. Louis Democrat, who served as floor majority leader from 1969 to 1972 and speaker of the House of Representatives from 1973 to 1976, was indicted March 3 on charges that he used his position of power to extort money from Berger Field Hurley Architects, Inc., and the Greater St. Louis Automobile Dealers Association.

He also was charged with attempting to extort law firm business from the Missouri Bus and Truck Association.

Mortimer A. Rosecan, Rabbitt's attorney, asked the judge to note the publicity surrounding the case and not be influenced by it.

"I wonder if it hasn't been publicized beyond its importance," Rosecan said.

If the conviction is upheld, Rabbitt faces loss of his license to practice law and would be barred from holding public office, Rosecan noted.

The attorney said there was "not even a whisper of a suggestion" that bad legislation had been enacted or that good legislation had been blocked.

Nangle said he felt badly for Rabbitt's family and that Rosecan's comments had had some effect on his decision.

However, Nangle said, "these offenses to me are significant and inexcusable."

After sentencing, Rabbitt said he hoped his trial would cause re-examination of the grand jury system and grants of immunity. During his trial, several key government witnesses were granted immunity from prosecution in return for their testimony.

Election complaints registered

Amidst a flurry of early-morning complaints involving illegal electioneering, voters across the county went to the polls Tuesday in what may be one of the largest turnouts for a special election in Pettis County history.

Most of the illegal campaigning charges involved supporters of candidates in the sheriff's race, where Democrat Don Stratton, Republican Bud Brown and Independents Jack Coutts and Al McAllister are vying to succeed former sheriff Emmett Fairfax. Pettis County Clerk Mary Jane Wilson said she received approximately 10 telephoned complaints Tuesday morning that persons were electioneering too close to the polls. This situation, she said Tuesday morning, "is the worst I've ever had to deal with." Mrs. Wilson has served as county clerk since 1971.

Federal law stipulates that no electioneering can take place within 100 feet of polling sites. Flags are supposed to mark this boundary in front of polling places, but in some cases this is impossible because the flags would have to be placed in the middle of streets. Persons Voters crowd around the registration tables at the Horace Mann School gymnasium Tuesday morning as they prepared to vote in the special election for sheriff, city collector and a revenue bond issue.

Voting throughout the county was considered heavy and by noon Tuesday about 450 people had voted at Horace Mann.

Council OK's police promotions

The City Council made Police Chief William Miller's long-desired changes in the police department by promoting Ron Hoskins to corporal and director of vice and narcotics, making Officer John Fillicetti the department's second detective and naming Officer Randy Silvey director of personnel and public information Monday night.

These changes had been recommended by Miller and the Police Personnel Board recently and the council approved the creation of the new positions at its last meeting. After receiving the results of test scores from several men applying for the jobs, the council opted for the three candidates favored by Miller.

Silvey, who carries no rank at the new post, will be paid the equivalent of a sergeant's salary. Silvey was the only officer to take the test for the information position, a duty he has been performing for the department for several weeks.

According to First Ward Republican Dr. Robert Vit, Hoskins and Fillicetti scored the highest of several men taking tests for these two positions. Hoskins has been the department's narcotics officer for some time.

Fillicetti, as a new detective, will be paid the same rate as a corporal and Hoskins was also installed at the rank and pay of corporal.

In other action Monday night, the council upheld one city Planning and Zoning Commission recommendation and ruled against another. It agreed with the commission that property located at 643 East 19th should not be rezoned from R-1 (single family residential) to C-0 (non retail). The property is owned by Gene and Pearl Branstetter, 638 East 18th, who had hoped to locate a beauty parlor and apartment on the site.

The council overruled a commission recommendation favoring a request to rezone property at the southeast corner of Ninth and Park from R-1 to C-0. The owner of this land tract, Harry Young, 1000 West Fourth, had hoped to locate his home and hearing aid sales and service business in a building at this location. By overruling the commission recommendation, the council rejected the rezoning request.

The council also Monday night: — Passed a resolution opposing Am-trak's proposal to reduce service at the local Amtrak depot.

— Received the yearly audit of the city. — Put a host of other requests for action in the hands of various council committees for further study and future recommendation for council action.

Among the issues put off were two requests by City Safety Inspector Bob Barbour. Barbour wanted the council to approve approximately $730 for the purchase of eight first-aid kits, eight fire extinguishers and two resuscitators for use by the city. That action was tabled pending a recommendation and study by the Police, Gas Lights, and Parking Committee.

Another request by Barbour that met with no action was a proposal for the council to spend approximately $900 to enable all city employees who drive city vehicles or their own vehicles on city business to take a National Safety Council defensive driving course.

The council put off two other issues for future study by the Fire and Water Committee. One issue was a request by

Vote of doom follows silence for old fire station building

By DAN POTTER
Staff Writer

"Does anyone here want to speak in favor of this?" Mayor Allen Hawkins asked, scanning the City Council Chambers. People in the audience Monday night turned awkwardly in their chairs to see who would approach the microphone and tell the councilmen why they should vote for this issue. There is always a spokesman for each side of an issue at council meetings.

But not this time — not for this issue.

The 90-year-old fire station building, sitting next to the modern Municipal Building where the councilmen decided the city needed a parking lot or an extension to the Municipal Building more than the old building needed a lease on life, could not speak.

So the councilmen voted 7-1 to raze the old brick building that had been gathering dust and deteriorating over the years. First Ward Republican Dr. Robert Vit explained why he just couldn't vote to level the building. "It's just a sentimental vote," smiled Dr. Vit. "I just didn't want to see it go," he shrugged.

But the old building will go. The council instructed City Clerk Ralph Dedrick to prepare the proper advertisements, seeking bids for the building's destruction.

The building had been given a reprieve at a June council meeting after a 4-3 vote gave supporters of the old fire station building's restoration until Monday night to come up with the funds or plans to give the building a facelift and structural support.

But those people had tried, they said last week, and just could not come up with funds.

There had been talk about the old building becoming a "Sedalia Hall of Fame" to honor 50 local persons with noteworthy backgrounds. And there was talk of preserving the building to house the Sedalia Community Theater Association.

But when it came down to the wire Monday night there were no funds or spokesmen for the restoration of the building.

To be sure, there was a lot of evidence against giving the building new life. The city had its engineer and building official make an inspection. That test proved the building to be unsafe in its present condition.

And as the mayor said Monday night, "We might be losing a little history, but we have to progress." The city needs a place for its employees to park and the Municipal Building will eventually have to be expanded, the mayor noted.

"Too bad about the old building," said one man, leisurely smoking a cigarette in the lobby after the demolition vote was taken.

"But no one spoke in support of it," another man turned and replied.

And after all, buildings can't talk.

Crime spree results in baby's death

MARSHALL — A man tentatively identified as a 21-year-old parolee from Ft. Worth, Tex., was arraigned in Saline County Magistrate Court here Tuesday morning on felony charges of manslaughter, auto theft, assaulting a police officer and stealing property valued at more than $50 in connection with a Monday evening crime spree.

Gary Piercer was arrested by Marshall police after the stolen car he was driving struck a stroller on a sidewalk and killed six-month-old Timothy Wilburn, son of Mrs. Sherri Wilburn, 19, Martinsburg, Mo.

Mrs. Wilburn, who suffered bruises and abrasions, was pushing the stroller through a residential area of Marshall when the incident occurred shortly after 7 p.m. Monday, Police Chief Gerald Stone said.

Authorities spent several hours Monday night obtaining an identification on Piercer, who refused to give information, and sorting out incidents leading to the fatal accident.

Stone said a Sedalia youth, Jeffery Barkacs, 17, 135 Rainbow Drive, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Barkacs, was picked up by Piercer while hitchhiking in the Kansas City area. Piercer was asked to take Barkacs to Marshall, Stone said, and apparently did so.

After arriving in Marshall, Piercer reportedly stole several cases of soft drinks from a Marshall merchant. Barkacs was apparently present but not involved in the theft, Stone said.

Harsh Fair beginning

Ambulance attendants lift 15-year-old Ken Stier, Wichita, Kan., a carnival worker, after he was run over by a Murphy Brothers Exposition truck trailer while he slept next to the rear wheels of the large unit at the Fairgrounds about 10:20 a.m. Tuesday. The youth died at Bothwell Hospital a short time later despite doctors' efforts to save him. The truck, carrying a large carnival ride, was driven by Donald Bollen, 22, El Paso, Tex. A Murphy Brothers spokesman said the youth joined the carnival about two weeks ago. All employees are told not to sleep near heavy equipment, it was reported.

Oasis in Brooklyn a delight to youngsters

By G. G. LaBELLE
Associated Press Writer

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (AP) — We're tenting tonight on the old camp ground — camp ground in the largest of the five boroughs of the nation's largest city. Were it a city alone, which it was until Jan. 1, 1898, it would be America's fourth largest.

Brooklyn is hardly the place for a rural retreat. It is, in fact, a city still, with its own special past and present. The Dodgers are gone, but Ebbets Field is not forgotten. There are the Ebbets Field apartments. The Brooklyn Eagle — a newspaper Walt Whitman edited — is gone too, but more than a dozen weekly papers serve the disparate neighborhoods. And the Brooklyn Bridge is ever present and ever lovely.

Some say the borough even has its own language — spoken most eloquently by the Kid from Brooklyn, the inevitable character in World War II movies who spoke "poils" of cynical city wisdom but sacrificed for his buddies in the end.

Today Brooklyn's nearly 2½ million citizens live in stately brownstones, decaying tenements, apartments and homes old and new, large and small. The city is a tangle of streets, stores, parks, wharves and warehouses, so confusingly vast that Thomas Wolfe once wrote a story about it called "Only the Dead Know Brooklyn."

Indeed, hardly the place for a rural retreat.

It's just that, though, for two dozen of Paulette Eisenstadt's first graders from P.S. 8, kids from Brooklyn not used to telling stories around a campfire, picking wild berries or romping amid tall, seaside grass.

The youngsters set out with their teacher and a dozen parents from their school near the Brooklyn Bridge, which spans the East River to lower Manhattan and just a coin's toss from Wall Street. There many of the neighborhood daddies work.

"Catherine and Daddy ... Jenny and Mommy," the roll is called before the yellow school bus begins its trek across Brooklyn along Flatbush Avenue.

The bus goes past the Williamsburg Savings Bank (Brooklyn's tallest building but at 512 feet a country cousin to Manhattan's 1,353-foot World Trade Center), past Prospect Park, past the parlor of a fortune-teller whose sign identifies her as "Sister Rice, Indian Reader," past the Unique Boutique — which is anything but unique on an avenue lined with clothing shops, bakeries, delicatessens and other small businesses.

Near the end of the avenue, the children get their last look at civilization as they know it, the Kings Plaza shopping center.

There the bus turns into the Gateway National Recreation Area which, had it not been set aside as old Floyd Bennett airfield 40 years ago, would have been only a mirror of all they had just passed.

Magically, it isn't. On the very first hike from National Park Service building to campsite, birds are nesting, toads are hopping, rabbits scampering.

Children run a few steps ahead, lie in the thigh-high grass and disappear, giggling, from parents' eyes.

Then there are the tents lent by the Park Service and set up with the instruction and sometimes the aid of Ranger Paul. There is Ranger Paul himself, young, patient, slow-talking, the perfect forest ranger in his brown uniform and Canadian Mountie hat.

Ranger Paul replies to a question that his last name is Gates, he is 21, from Franklin, Vt., a student on the work end of a work-study program in law enforcement at Boston's Northeastern University. He declines a glass of wine but accepts two helpings of Mrs. Eisenstadt's stew, brought from home in a pot big enough to feed all.

After supper, there is running, games, wandering, wrestling, falling down, lying in the grass looking up at stars much brighter than the ones seen from lamp-lit city streets.

Then Paul builds a campfire, children and parents sing and roast marshmallows, and Paul tells ghost stories. One is about Charlie, who haunts youngsters who wander away from camp.

Then, into the tents and into bed. Lying in a sleeping bag, cuddling a stuffed animal, giggling with a best friend. Then, out of the tents. Running to giggle in another tent with another best friend.

Seven-year-old Mary emerges from her tent to ask Daddy, "When are the boys going to scare us?"

They do, becoming shadowy monsters, looming over pup tents with flashlights shining behind them. The girls dutifully shriek.

Around midnight, mercifully, it really is bedtime. Parents now talk about kids, apartments and houses, bills, jobs.

It is peaceful in the country. Country? Not really; it's Brooklyn, remember. One parent looks into the night and asks, "Did anyone bring his Alexander's charge card?" Everyone looks. In the distance is the neon sign of Alexander's department store at Kings Plaza.

Brooklyn is still all around. Gateway's 26,000 acres, which also include parts of New Jersey and the boroughs of Queens and Staten Island, were set aside by Congress as an open place for city folks only five years ago. Floyd Bennett field, 1,050 of those acres, was transferred from the Navy to the Interior Department two years ago.

The airfield tarmac is still there, though grass grows through the cracks. Portable toilets rest on it in front of hangars that served waves of planes in World War II but now are hollow and ghostly.

At 5 a.m., sleep is ended by other reminders of aviation and of Floyd Bennett, the aviator who was with Admiral Byrd on the first flight over the North Pole in 1926. Jetliners roar overhead from nearby Kennedy and LaGuardia airports. Children wander hand-in-hand to portable poties. There is breakfast of fruit and cereal, and Ranger Paul reappears.

"We saw Charlie," one boy tells him proudly.

Next, the ranger leads a hike to Jamaica Bay. There are birds and toads, wild flowers and wild berries. Coming back, berry-stained hands clutch carefully collected flowers. Berry-stained mouths yawn. Arms and legs are bumpy with mosquito bites.

The campout ends quickly now. Lunch is bologna and salami with Mrs. Eisenstadt's home-made bread. Tents come down. Gear is packed. The yellow school bus arrives for its cargo of weary children.

It begins the journey home, past Kings Plaza, the Williamsburg Savings Bank, the Unique Boutique. The children are back in Brooklyn, though they never left.

Shower syndrome

By ERMA BOMBECK

A mother wrote last week and said, "My son is so shy and uncommunicative I probably won't know he is going through puberty until he has passed it."

Boys are like that. If my son came home and found me unconscious on the kitchen floor, he'd yell in my unconscious ear, "What's for snack?"

Actually, there is only one surefire, telltale, infallible way of telling whether or not your son has discovered that girls need more padding on a softball team than boys do.

I call it the Shower Syndrome.

For four or five years, the only contact my sons had with water was a sponge in the back of the church filled with holy water. I had the only kids on the block who could take a shower and not get their hair, trousers or shoes wet.

I nagged them to death about it.

"Did you take a bath?"

"I went swimming."

"Did you wash your hands?"

"I washed the one that was dirty. See?"

"Why don't you take a shower?"

"Where are we going?"

Then, for no apparent reason, we heard the water running ... and running. And running. And running.

"What is he doing in the shower this long?" asked my husband. "Washing away his sins?"

"He has just discovered girls."

"When is he going to discover that we only have a 30-gallon hot water tank and he emptied that to wash his hair?"

"Cleanliness is next to Godliness," I quoted.

"Billy Graham isn't that religious."

"Look," I said, "I know a body left in water three days is not attractive, and you know it, but the point is, he doesn't know it."

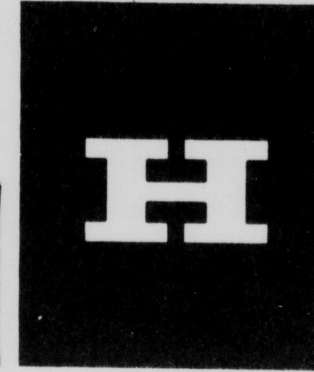

If you can't hear the water running, there are still other clues to your son's discovery of the opposite sex. He will use a can of deodorant a day ... for each arm ... each time he takes a shower. He will use mouthwash like it runs free out of the tap. As for shampoo, I never thought I would see the day when I would hide two tablespoons of shampoo in the tea canister so I could wash my hair over the weekend.

As my husband observed the other day as he stepped from his cold shower, brushed his teeth with baking soda, squirted hair spray under each arm and gargled with a cup of coffee, "I think I liked 'em better when they were dirty."

Six airlines agree on new N.Y.-London rates

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Six airlines have agreed on new off-season fares between New York and London of $146 one way and $256 round trip to compete with Freddie Laker's Skytrain shuttle.

The cost for tickets bought in London would be 64 pounds (currently $111) and 149 pounds ($259) because varying tariffs and fluctuating exchange rates make tickets for the eastbound flight more expensive.

The rates are to be effective between Sept. 15 and March 31, with a total of 2,900 seats available each week in each direction aboard planes of Trans World Airlines and Pan American, which originated the plan; British Airways, Air India, Iran Air and El Al. They are the members of the International Air Transport Association (IATA) that fly between New York and London.

Laker, an independent British operator who is not a member of IATA, plans to start one flight a day each way between Britain and the United States in September. He is to charge $236 for the round trip, $135 for the New York-to-London flight and about $111 for the London-to-New York leg.

Charters and package deals now provide the cheapest New York-to-London fares of about $250 to $300 roundtrip.

IATA also announced agreement on lower advance purchase excursion, or APEX, fares between several U.S. and European cities from Oct. 1 to March 31, 1978.

Depending on the flight, APEX tickets must be purchased 14 to 45 days before departure. The new APEX fare between New York and London would be $299, a reduction of $51.

The new IATA rates, announced Monday after a three-day meeting in Geneva, are subject to approval by the British and U.S. governments and by four other major airlines that did not attend the conference.

IATA, an association of 110 airlines from 85 countries, declined to identify the other four lines.

The new cut-rate tickets on the IATA lines would be available in two ways:

1. A passenger would pay the full ticket price at least

Spanish moss is an air plant that has no roots. It grows in long strands from the branches of certain trees in the southeastern part of the United States.

three weeks before the week he planned to leave. The airline would inform him of his assigned flight no earlier than 10 days before the week of departure.

2. A passenger would sign up in advance on a standby status which would not guarantee him a seat. Seat assignments would be made after 4 a.m. of the day of departure and at least three hours before the flight left New York or two hours before it left London.

Laker received approval in June from the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board for a year-round service of one flight a day each way between New York and London filled on a first-come, first-served basis. There is to be no advance booking or ticket sale and no standby status.

Laker's fares are to be payable in cash while the IATA lines will accept credit cards. The IATA carriers will provide free meals; Laker won't.

Man sought in Missouri found guilty

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — One of two men sought in a Platte County Missouri kidnaping and rape case has been found guilty of three charges in an attempted bank robbery in Colorado.

George E. Chatfield, 45, was convicted by a jury in Jefferson County District Court of conspiracy to commit aggravated robbery, attempting to commit aggravated robbery and felony menacing. Sentencing is scheduled for Oct. 3.

The jury failed to reach a verdict on charges of first-degree kidnaping and violent crime, and Judge Joseph P. Lewis declared a mistrial on those charges. New trial dates on those charges were set for November.

Mrs. Kathleen Sneed

Mrs. Kathleen Sneed, 83, Route 5, died at 2:45 p.m. Monday at Brooking Park Geriatrics Center.

She was born Oct. 30, 1893, in Sedalia, daughter of the late Harry C. and Dora Lamy DeMuth. She was married to Harry Ritchey Bouldin in 1916, and he died in 1936. In 1949, she was married to John M. Sneed, who survives of the home.

Mrs. Sneed lived in Sedalia all her life. She was a lifelong member of the Calvary Episcopal Church.

Survivors include one son, David R. Bouldin, Ithaca, N.Y.; one daughter, Mrs. Dora D. Harvey, San Antonio, Tex.; one brother, Lester H. DeMuth, Sarasota, Fla.; seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday at the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel with the Rev. William E. Lusk officiating.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the funeral home.

Mrs. Minnie R. Meredith

Mrs. Minnie R. Meredith, 91, 314 West Seventh, died at 8:15 p.m. Sunday at Bothwell Hospital.

She was born Aug. 1, 1886, in Pettis County, daughter of the late Julius and Ernestine Liebold Richter. On May 20, 1920, she was married to Carson E. Meredith, who died Oct. 14, 1961.

Mrs. Meredith was a lifelong Sedalian and a member of the Community Church of Sedalia.

Survivors include one sister, Mrs. H.D. (Delia) Jamison, Nashville, Tenn.; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the McLaughlin Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Robert Kessler officiating.

Palbearers will be Jim Durley, Jake Deck, Brooke Wade, Joe Smetana, L.W. Duly and George E. Dugan.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday at the chapel.

Wilbert E.J. Munsterman

STOVER — Wilbert Edward John Munsterman, 64, died Sunday at his lake home south of here.

Born Oct. 27, 1912, he was the son of the late Henry and Lena Koch Munsterman of Stover. He married Cora Wessel on May 29, 1937, in Sedalia, and she survives of the home.

Mr. Munsterman retired in 1975 from the Morgan County R-1 School District, where he had been employed as a mechanic for several years.

Survivors include one son, Ronnie Munsterman, Stover; one daughter, Mrs. Mary McGinnis, Versailles; three brothers, Henry Munsterman, Shannon City, Iowa; Edwell Munsterman, Florence; Elroy Munsterman, Stover; four sisters, Mrs. Clara Boesch, Mrs. Minnie Stoecker, Mrs. Alvina Wittrock and Mrs. Marie Olson, all of Stover; and one half-sister, Mrs. Amelia Tobben, Brazilton, Kan.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Peirmont Trinity Lutheran Church, near Stover, with the Rev. Walter H. Evenson officiating.

Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Scrivner Funeral Chapel here.

Storm hits California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Towns were battered, highways flooded, and hundreds of travelers stranded as the northern tip of Hurricane Doreen ravaged Southern California's deserts with rainstorms whipped by 60-mile-an-hour winds.

No injuries were reported from Monday's storm, which forced the evacuation of flooded homes in two towns near the Salton Sea and washed out part of Interstate 15, the major link between this city and Las Vegas.

"The whole Imperial Valley's pretty much under water now but so far we have no reports of injuries," said Kenny Dukes, communications supervisor of the Imperial County sheriff's department.

Forecasters said the rain probably would not make much of a dent in California's current drought, one of the worst in state history.

"When it comes down all at once, it's not that helpful," said Roger Hill, a forecaster with the National Weather Service. "In fact, it ruins many crops when it comes down that hard."

He noted the ground was so parched the flash floods did not sink into the soil. "It's all gone now," he added.

Flash flood warnings were in effect into Wednesday for most deserts, the southern San Bernardino Mountains, portions of Riverside County and the mountains of San Diego County.

A weather service spokesman said Doreen, lying off the southern tip of Baja California, would likely be downgraded to a tropical storm today.

The storm, most severe over the Mojave Desert, burst over the mountains in midafternoon Monday and dumped about an inch of rain on many Southern California communities. Some hail was reported in the San Bernardino Mountains. The temperature dropped from 107 degrees to 84 in Palm Springs.

Ex-sheriff named liquor control agent

J.T. Hull, former Morgan County sheriff, will be named liquor control agent for Pettis, Benton and Saline Counties.

Hull confirmed the appointment in a telephone interview Monday night. He said he will receive instruction and training later this month.

"I will be going to Jefferson City for training (Aug. 22) and I will be there a week," said Hull. Following his training he will go to work as an agent.

Having served four terms as sheriff, Hull said he was already familiar with many of the duties of a liquor control agent.

Hull said he has no immediate plans to move to one of the three counties he will serve.

"The director said for the time being we'll see how this works," commented Hull. He noted he will not be paid for mileage for traveling to the Benton County line, where he will enter the district. Agents are paid mileage traveled within their district.

Hull will replace former agent Clyde Swafford, who resigned in late July.

ing approximately 10 blocks along the roadway known as both Pettis and Saline Street, will be funded with community block grant money.

Cunningham was asked to investigate the bids because of the wide difference between the low bid of $57,360.25, submitted by the Jackson-Wiskur Construction Co., Sedalia, and high bid of $130,072.90, submitted by the Tip-Top Construction Co., Kansas City. Cunningham said he will meet with officials of the Jackson-Wiskur company Tuesday or Wednesday to make sure that they accounted for all project specifications in their bid. Cunningham said he hopes final arrangements on this project can be completed this week so that construction can begin as soon as possible.

Other bids on the project were: $80,976.30 by the Wolf Construction Co., Sedalia; and $82,072.90 by General Contractors, Sedalia.

Council

Firefighters Local 823 to allow that union's executive board to become certified by the state mediation board. The union wants that recognition so it will have the authority in future contract talks with the city to reduce agreements to a written form that would be legal and binding.

The other issue delayed was a recommendation by William Barman, of the state Insurance Services Office, that the city adopt the 1976 Uniform Fire Code as recommended by the American Insurance Association.

The resolution adopted by the council against the Amtrak proposal to reduce services at its local depot "is designed to complement" a somewhat-similar letter sent recently to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Chamber of Commerce, Vit said. Vit, one of the resolution's co-sponsors, said, however, that the resolution features a slightly different slant than the Chamber letter.

"Their's was more factual...our resolution is more emotional," he explained. "We have emphasized Sedalia's railroad heritage and what the railroad has always meant to Sedalia."

In other business, the council decided to have the Fire and Water Committee and the Buildings and Grounds Committee investigate alleged unsanitary and hazardous conditions at the north-south alley next to the Municipal Building. It is not only unsanitary and unsightly, noted First Ward Democrat Gary Dey, but also a potential fire hazard.

Dey said several merchants in the area pour oil and paint in the alley, which eventually pours into the city sewer system. The council also asked City Engineer Robert Cunningham and the Street and Alley Committee to study bids received for curb and guttering work on the city's north side. This project, covering approximately 10 blocks along the roadway known as both Pettis and Saline Street, will be funded with community block grant money.

Firefighters winning battle at Los Padres

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Marble-Cone fire that has devastated 204 square miles of drought-parched central California coastland may be contained within a few days, forestry officials said today.

The blaze, now the third largest in the state's history, has consumed 130,500 acres in the Los Padres National Forest and adjacent private land. It was reported 60 per cent contained.

Back-burning — fire lines set up ahead of the path of the fire with the brush or fuel burned in between — has been effective so far, officials said.

"We're hoping by Thursday we'll have the (back-burning) line tied in all the way," said William Morrison, U.S. Forest Service spokesman. "If everything goes right then, it will probably be only a few days until it will be contained."

Besides the Marble-Cone fire, six other fires still burned in California, the state Department of Forestry said.

Lightning, the culprit in a chain of nearly 1,000 fires that began Aug. 1, sparked the newest blaze Monday near Lake Elsinore in Riverside County. Flames engulfed 400 acres, but the fire was hoped to be contained later today, the CDF said.

The Marble-Cone was among those torched by nature and officials would only hazard a damage estimate of "several millions of dollars."

"It looks almost like pictures of Hiroshima after the atomic bomb," Morrison said. "There are areas of complete devastation, with only little twigs sticking out."

Meanwhile, dense smoke grounded air tankers Monday in the battle against a 2,500-acre blaze in the Klamath National Forest and the 9,500-acre fire near the Humboldt and Siskiyou county line, the CDF said.

The Bear Trap blaze in the Sequoia National Forest has scorched 1,200 acres, with no estimate for containment.

Election

campaigning near the polls are not supposed to distribute literature or in anyway electioneer "inside the flags," which are prominently placed near all polling sites.

The controversy apparently centered around the Third Ward polling site at Whittier School and the Fourth Ward site at Horace Mann School. At Whittier, one judge told The Democrat-Capital she was forced to call Mrs. Wilson's office after some campaigners did not comply with her request that they campaign outside the flags.

Responding to these complaints, Mrs. Wilson notified Stratton, who is acting sheriff, of the reported irregularities. Sheriff's officials, along with some members of the Sedalia police department, then inspected the four city polling sites to confirm the reports and enforce the election law.

Mrs. Wilson and Stratton both attributed the violations to ignorance on the part of the election workers, rather than on deliberate efforts to disobey the law.

Stratton said that, because of the controversy, he "pulled his people off the poll areas around 9 this morning" with the exception of one person, who remained until around 11 a.m. Couts said late Tuesday morning his workers "are all in compliance." Brown, the third mafor candidate in the race, could not be reached for comment.

Noon voting totals in the city's four polling sites were all above-average. A total of 549 votes had been cast at Heber Hunt School, 290 at Washington, 444 at Whittier and 450 at Horace Mann. In the county, early-morning rains kept the vote total at 50 in Hughesville Township, but an election worker predicted a larger turnout in the afternoon and early evening.

In addition to voting for a sheriff, Sedalians will also be selecting a new city collector and voting on an $11 million industrial revenue bond issue to finance construction of a Waterloo Industries plant. The candidates for city collector are Democrat Mrs. Jan Boehne and Republican Mrs. Lorraine Jackson.

Youth

Following the theft, Piercer's car struck a light pole at the Pizza Hut restaurant here and both young men left the scene of the accident. Stone said it was later learned the car was stolen from Deluth, Minn. Piercer was on probation from Texas following his conviction there for auto theft, Stone said.

While police were investigating the accident at the Pizza Hut, an officer noticed three people in the street a short distance from the accident scene and two of them matched the description of those involved in the accident.

As the officer began to approach the three, Piercer reportedly jumped into a nearby car and began to flee, Stone said. The car taken by Piercer belonged to the Rev. James C. Emerson. Mr. Emerson had been contacted by Barkacs, whose elbow was injured in the first accident, to take Barkacs to the hospital, Stone said. The minister was reportedly a friend of the Barkacs youth, Stone said.

The Wilburn baby and his mother were struck by the stolen car driven by Piercer on the sidewalk a short distance from where the chase began, and the car continued for three blocks before coming to a stop with a flat tire. A scuffle ensued and Piercer reportedly assaulted a Marshall police officer, Stone said.

Piercer remained in the Saline County jail here in lieu of bond. No charges were filed against the Barkacs youth.

Whiteman crew in helicopter forced to land

LEETON — A U.S. Air Force helicopter carrying a Whiteman Air Force Base missile crew was forced to make an emergency landing in a farm field near here Monday morning, according to an Air Force spokesman.

There were no injuries and only minor damage to the helicopter although the engine had to be stopped in mid-air.

Base officials are crediting helicopter commander Capt. Dale M. Kortum, 28, Crown Point, Ind., with averting tragedy in the incident.

The craft began experiencing engine problems at 2,000 feet altitude. Capt. Kortum instituted emergency procedures and shut the engine down, guiding the helicopter to a safe landing in the field.

Base officials said the craft will be repaired and flown out of the field within the next few days.

Passengers in the helicopter included 1st Lt. William Griffith; 2nd Lt. Peter Will; Sgt. Edwin Childers and Sgt. Ronald Stair.

WAFB airman arraigned on drug charge

Jeffrey Lee Asbury, 22, Plaza West Apartments, was arraigned in Magistrate Court Friday afternoon on felony marijuana possession charges in connection with his arrest Sunday evening in the parking lot of the Plaza West complex.

Asbury and two other men, both of whom were released pending further investigation, were arrested about 6:40 p.m. by Sedalia police officers Ron Hoskins and John Fillicetti, State Highway Patrol Cpl. Jim Mays and Trooper Randy Hoeflicker and Interim Sheriff Don Stratton.

About 8 1/2 pounds of marijuana was confiscated during the arrests, which followed a 2 1/2-week investigation by all three law enforcement agencies. Police reported the marijuana had a potential street value of over $2,500.

Asbury is an airman at Whiteman Air Force Base, as is one of the other men. The third man arrested is from Indiana. The other two were released from the city jail Monday afternoon.

Asbury remains in the county jail in lieu of $3,500 bond pending his preliminary hearing Aug. 31.

Treasury check is stolen, cashed at a local store

U.S. Postal Service authorities will be notified by Sedalia police of the theft of a U.S. Treasury Department check from a mailbox and the cashing of that check.

Peter Covert, Route 4, reported his Veterans Administration check for $396 was taken and later cashed at Consumers East Market.

Covert said the check could have been sent to either his rural address or another address he uses at 603 North Quincy on July 1 or 2.

Police reported they have a lead in the case and are investigating.

In other police news:

— C. W. "Red" Gordy, 408 East Sixth, reported someone apparently punctured a tire, valued at $85 to $90, on his car while it was parked at his home late Sunday or early Monday.

— Craig Gray, 319 West 10th, reported a tape player, valued at $75, and two speakers, valued at $200, were taken from his car while it was parked at his home late Sunday or early Monday.

Gasification proposal economically feasible

BY JIM WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A proposal for two coal gasification plants in Missouri is economically feasible, according to a Kansas consulting firm.

In a report prepared for two Missouri groups, the consulting firm of Lutz, Daily and Brain, of Overland Park, Kan., said the technology was well enough established to operate the plants and they could compete economically with similar sized conventional coal-burning electrical generating plants.

The gasification proposal calls for two 300-megawatt facilities which would be able to produce electricity, along with both a medium energy and high energy types of synthetic gas.

The Lutz firm had worked out the report for the Green Hills Planning Commission and the mid-Missouri Council of Governments and presented the document to the two groups at a meeting Monday in Jefferson City.

The report said although there had been "limited coal gasification experience" in the United States and other countries, the two plants appeared workable.

The report compared the gasification plants with a similar-sized standard coal-burning electrical generating plant. The proposed Missouri facilities could market electricity at a "very competitive level" with the standard generating plant "when the (synthetic) and industrial gas are sold during periods of reduced electrical demand," the consultants said.

"There is definitely a market for the gas that can be produced at these facilities," said Jack Daily, a partner in the consulting firm.

The plants could be in operation by 1982 if officials went ahead with them on schedule, according to J.M. Moe, an engineer with an Irvine, Calif., engineering firm which also worked on the report.

Daily said there were several smaller coal gasification plants currently in operation, including a 170 megawatt plant in Lunen, West Germany, which has been in operation since 1972.

The firm's report said the plants would use a gasification process developed by Texaco and that Texaco already had tested the Missouri coal which would be used and had found it "suitable for the coal gasification process."

In addition to the electricity the plants would generate, they also would produce a high energy substitute gas that could be used for residential consumption and a medium energy synthetic gas usable for industrial purposes.

Wallace Howe, state geologist with the Missouri Department of Natural Resources, said the gasification plants' ability to produce electricity and the two types of synthetic gas give them the "Three-way Flexibility" to be economically feasible.

Howe also said the lower energy industrial gas would have to be used at the plants' location, for products such as fertilizer.

The report considered estimated total costs for building the plants, based on anticipated construction costs by 1982.

At a 5 per cent escalation rate each plant would cost $347 million, while at a 6 per cent rate each would have a price tag of $358 million.

The consultants concluded the "concept" for the two gasification plants "has been determined to be sound from an engineering and economic standpoint and establishes the desirability for the addition study."

The document listed five possible sites for the plants, with two in the Green Hills area and three in the mid-Missouri area.

In the Green hills region the two sites tentatively selected for further examination are just west of Milan and southwest of Unionville.

The possible sites for the mid-Missouri plant are north of Fayette, near Boonville or north of Columbia.

Although the proposal has gained support in the Green Hills region, it has run into opposition in the mid-Missouri area, where opponents maintain the plant concept in basically unsound.

In the United States, "the 400" is an expression used for the inner circle of higher society. It is said to have originated when Mrs. William Astor asked Ward McAllister to help her cut her annual ball guest list down to 400, since her ballroom would not accommodate more.

Boy, 10, hangs himself

By MARC ROSENWASSER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Apartment 6J at 580 Castle Hill Avenue in the Bronx was George Curet's home, his cage and ultimately the site he chose for his self-destruction. He was 10.

Hour after hour, day after day, George Curet was left in the apartment to tend to his 6-year-old brother, Bruce. Their mother and two older brothers worked. Their father did not live with them.

All this meant that the two boys idled away their hours inside, while other children from the 12-story project played outside.

A resident of the building described it as "run-down" but "the place to come to from burnt-out buildings."

It was in that setting that George Curet lived and George Curet died.

"This year, he didn't come down a lot. His mother wouldn't let him come down," said Robert Alvarado, 14, who described himself and his 10-year-old brother Robby as George's only friends in the building.

"The only time he ever came down was to ride his bicycle. But he only did that a couple of times a year. His older brothers would never take him anywhere.

"He was a quiet kid," Alvarado said. "He didn't like to mess around. And besides, he always had to take care of his brother."

His mother wasn't always happy with the way George handled Bruce. The younger boy would often lose things or else cry to his mother that his older brother had mistreated him. George would be blamed — and sometimes yelled at or maybe hit.

That, at least, is the version Robert Alvarado tells. George wouldn't talk about it — not even to his few friends, including Alvarado.

"I never heard him say nothing," the youth admitted.

Typically, the two brothers were alone in the apartment Monday morning when telephone company worker McKinley Alston arrived to install a phone. But George Curet's patience and hopes had run out.

"Is your mother home?" Alston asked.

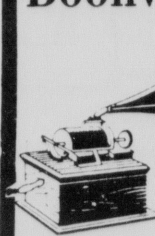

"No, just my brother," the young boy said. "But he's hanging."

Alston found George hanging from a closet door, a belt tied around his neck, a chair tipped over beneath him. "A definite suicide," a police spokesman said.

Bruce told police his older brother had asked him to kick the chair out from under him. When he refused, George kicked the chair out for himself.

New policy on isolation enacted at state prison

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State corrections officials say they will begin administrative proceedings to isolate inmates against their will if their lives are in danger should they remain among the general prison population.

"If it is in the best interests of the security of the institution, we'll put them in isolation even if it is against their own wishes," James Walsh, director of the state Department of Social Services, said on Monday.

Walsh said at least one inmate at the main prison here who is known as an informer will be subjected to the administrative proceeding immediately.

The new prison policy comes in the wake of the brutal stabbing death last Wednesday night of James Falkner, 26, who had testified against five accomplices in the slaying of an off-duty Kansas City policeman.

Falkner was stabbed 15 times with a sharpened screwdriver in the prison recreation yard only hours after he was placed in the general prison population. One of the men he testified against is being held in connection with the murder.

"I have indicated to (Warden Donald) Wyrick and the inmate classification committee that when we get an informer like this we should hold an administrative hearing and if the facts support it, place him in isolation anyway, even if he does not want it," Walsh said.

"I know we'll be inviting law suits and I don't want to invite lawsuits," he said. "But we just have to move."

Falkner was sent to the main prison on July 28 to serve a 15-year term after he testified against his confederates in the aborted bank robbery and pleaded guilty to second-degree murder. Both Clay County Circuit Court Judge Glennon McFarland, who sentenced him, and Prosecutor William Brandom, who tried him, said they had promised he would serve his sentence in another state in return for his cooperation.

Correction officials, after investigating the circumstances around Falkner's commitment, said they had talked with him about the danger to his life if he was placed with the general prison population and recommended that he remain in isolation while they arranged for his transfer to another state.

But Walsh said Falkner indicated he did not want to stay in isolation in light of the time it could take to arrange his transfer — as long as six months or more — and asked to be placed with the other inmates. He also acknowledged that prison officials "boomed it" in the way they handled release of the information on Falkner's death.

"In hindsight, we wish we'd have put the guy in there (isolation) anyway," Walsh said, referring to the possible violation of the inmate's constitutional rights if he is isolated against his will without due process.

"But now, if we feel the security of the institution and the individual requires that we put a man in isolation, then we'll hold a hearing and if the evidence is sufficient, we'll put him in there anyway, whether or not he thinks he can make it own his own," Walsh said. "Hindsight is a great thing."

Both McFarland and Brandom said state officials were warned of the danger to Falkner's life by a letter, a telephone call and in the court's sentencing order itself. Prison officials have said, however, they never received the letter but were trying to arrange a transfer for Falkner anyway.

"Whether or not the judge or prosecutor wrote or phoned is irrelevant," Walsh said. "We were doing precisely what they wanted anyway."

Advice on energy: get a good bike

The certainty is growing that if we have an energy crisis in this country, it was made in Washington.

The House, given the chance to replace the let-government-do-it approach of the Carter administration with a more sensible reliance on the marketplace, blew it. The President's high-tax, low-incentive energy package passed largely intact.

Whereupon the House then moved from the irresponsible to the absurd. It tacked on a provision calling on the Department of Transportation to conduct a one-year study "of the energy conservation potential of bicycle transportation." This can be done for under $1 million, said supporters.

Here is a case study of what often passes for legislating on Capitol Hill these days.

Now bicycles are fine — we even own a few ourselves — but we hardly need a million-dollar study to tell us the obvious. We can see it now: The Department of Transportation will deliver itself of a ponderous report a year hence, telling Americans that (1) Bicycles are cheaper to operate since they don't use gas; (2) They are easier to park and don't pollute the atmosphere; (3) They are good exercise.

Then we will all be advised by the secretary of energy to ride bikes to work. Which those who want to will do anyway, so who needs Big Brother getting into the act?

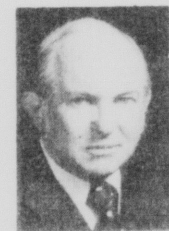

The frightening thing is that the bicycle bill could well turn into a self-fulfilling prophecy. A few years of the Federal Energy Act of 1977, and bikes might very well be the only mode of wheeled transportation left.

Federal government fell on Scientology

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — A small army of FBI agents played another game of gangbusters last month with the Church of Scientology. By apparent actual count, 134 agents burst into three church offices in Washington and California. They hauled away tons of stuff. Now church leaders are fighting back.

Kilpatrick

Speaking simply as a taxpayer, I would say hooray for these scrappy reverends. They have sued the FBI, and they have just published a large book of documents having to do with the government's long campaign of harassment against them. Church lawyers pried the documents loose from a reluctant government by means of the Freedom of Information Act. The FOIA seldom has been put to more revealing use.

If the Scientologists' story were not so terrifying, it would have its comic aspects. But the story in fact is terrifying. Over a period of 23 years, commencing in 1954, the federal government has thrown its whole massive weight into a malicious persecution of this religious sect. A dozen different agencies have participated in the attack. Millions upon millions of tax dollars have been wasted. No statistician could compute the man hours of costly time that have been frittered away in blundering pursuit of these devotees.

For the record, I am as skeptical of the Scientologists — and as tolerant of their ideas — as I am of every other organized religion. Scientology may be a racket, as the government persistently contends, but this has never been proved as a matter of law. These people believe they have found a path to man's peace of mind; they profess to have founded an establishment of religion. And if church leaders seek rich converts, and milk them for large contributions, what else is new?

The story begins in 1954, when the United States Air Force, of all outfits, launched an investigation of Scientology in the area of Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado. The USAF Office of Special Investigation had some notion that the disciples were Communists, homosexuals, or either, or both. So began the harassment.

In 1958, the Secret Service got into the act. It appears the church had mentioned the name of Richard Nixon in some publication. Mr. Nixon was then vice president. The Secret Service dispatched a couple of muscle men to throw their weight around.

In 1959, the Food and Drug Administration began an attack that would go on for years. Why the FDA, you may ask? A fair question. The Scientologists use a simple skin galvanometer, which they call an E-meter, as an aid in their metaphysical healing programs. The FDA said the E-meter was a quack medical device, hence unlawful. So agents of the FDA, disguised as prospective members, began infiltrating and snooping and detecting and writing long single-spaced reports.

In 1960, the United States Army moved up some troops. The Scientologists' book includes a photostat of one Army Intelligence report. If that report is a fair sample of the intelligence of Army Intelligence, God help the American Republic.

In 1961, the Air Force renewed its forays. In 1962, the FDA and the Bureau of Customs gave the church a hard time. In January of 1963, two huge vans, escorted by motorcycle police, rolled up to church headquarters in Washington. Government agents seized 3 tons of material, including 5,000 books, 20,000 pamphlets, and 65 of the devilish E-meters. It took 10 years of costly litigation before the courts held the raid an unconstitutional abuse of power.

In 1967, the Labor Department harassed the church by denying work permits to visiting ministers from abroad. The CIA checked in. The Post Office brought up its legions of postal inspectors, sniffing for mail fraud. The FBI kept surveilling away. The Immigration and Naturalization Service joined the fun. So, too, the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, and the National Security Agency. They must have fallen over each other.

Finally the government, having lost at every turn, threw the Internal Revenue Service into the breach. The IRS prepared whole pages of instruction for its agents' manual, dealing with special audits and investigations. The IRS now has 33 lineal feet of files on the sect, and all the government has for its trouble is a series of court rulings to the effect that Scientology is indeed a church as a matter of law.

Who's crazy? I ask you, seriously, now, who's nuts? These meter-reading reverends? Or the government's klutzes who trample the First Amendment under foot?

Alaska's oil hard to get

WASHINGTON—"Can I help you, sir?"

"Yeh, fill up the tank."

"With what, sir?"

"I'd like some of that beautiful Alaska petroleum I've been seeing on television."

Buchwald

"I'm terribly sorry, but we don't have any Alaskan gas. We have some lovely fresh Saudi Arabian fuel that just came in a few days ago."

"How come you don't have any Alaskan gold? The stuff's been coming down the pipeline for months. I've been looking forward to burning it ever since they made the first strike."

"It's not as easy to come by as one might think. You see, sir, once it comes out of the ground it has to be shipped by pipe. The pipeline was only just completed. It was supposed to cost less than a million dollars. It finally cost between seven and eight billion dollars. Then after it was built, there was some question about the welding, and there was an explosion along the line, and then a truck went into it and the whole thing has been a mess. I'm not sure Alaskan fuel will be available to many Americans for some time to come. Would you like to try our Kuwaiti-No Lead? It's very popular for a car of your size."

"I thought once we got the Alaska pipeline built our fuel problems would be over."

"Oh, no. Actually it's created new problems. We may have an oil glut on the West Coast as more and more of the oil comes down the pipeline. There aren't enough refineries to handle what we're shipping. Would you like to try a little unassuming Persian gasoline? It doesn't come from one of the famous oil fields, but it's very good for everyday bumper-to-bumper driving."

"If it was up to me I'd say put Libyan gasoline into the car if you want to. But my wife says we should buy American. She says the less money we give the Arab states the less co-operative apartments they can buy in New York City."

"Well, what about some Venezuelan Crude? It has a lovely black texture to it and smells rather nice in a tunnel."

"Look, my wife sent me out for Alaska Premium and she's going to be furious if I fill up the car with something else. We've been led to believe that by Aug. 1 we could buy all the Alaskan gasoline we wanted to, and at a reasonable price I might add. It isn't fair to get people's expectations up and then not be able to deliver."

"It's true, sir, we did expect to sell the Alaskan oil in August but so many things have happened since then."

"What happened?"

"They built the pipeline to the wrong place. They should have built it to the Midwest. It's actually cheaper to sell Alaskan oil to Japan than it is to the lower 48 states."

"You wouldn't sell Alaskan oil to foreigners and keep us Americans from having any of it."

"There is a lot of talk of it. We'll give you Nigerian oil instead."

"I don't want my car to drive on Nigerian fuel!"

"What about Algerian Regular?"

"I don't see why as a consumer I can't get what I want."

"It's nobody's fault, sir. As I said, they built the pipeline to the wrong place. It could happen to anybody. The Alaskan oil companies feel worse about it than you do."

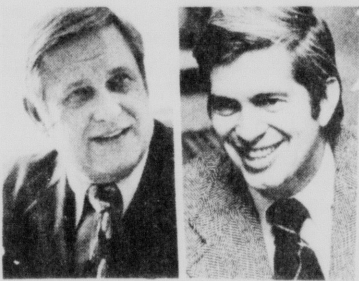

"All the buildup, all the hopes of Americans using their own Alaskan slope petroleum have gone down the drain. How long can our cars keep running on Iraqi British petroleum? Suppose the Sultan of Oman starts mixing his oil with Muscat? When President Andrew Johnson bought Alaska he had only one thing in mind, and that was that someday every American, rich as well as poor, would be able to pull up to any service station in the United States and say, 'Give me 10 bucks worth of Super Alaskan Ethyl.'"

"I feel the way you do, sir. It is the end of the American dream."

Bible verse

"We looked for peace, but no good came, for a time of healing, but behold, terror." — Jeremiah 8:15.

By JACK ANDERSON and
LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Army, never renowned for the excellence of the cuisine it serves to enlisted men, has now spent more than $50 million bombarding food with gamma and beta rays.

This "Star Wars" treatment, known as food irradiation, was supposed to sterilize and prolong the life of the chow. Instead, it merely made the food tasteless. One report goes so far as to call it "inedible."

A confidential House report, prepared for Rep. Thomas Downey, D-N.Y., charges that the costly sterilization process has failed to produce a single edible morsel.

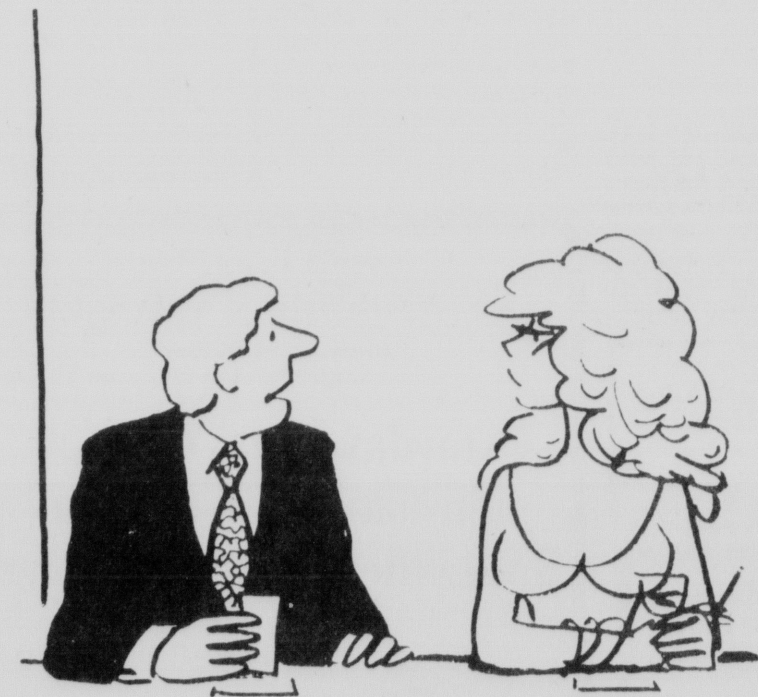

He has called the scandal to the attention of the General Accounting Office. According to Downey, the Army has spent more than $50.7 million on irradiation research over a 25-year period.

The bombardment of potatoes with gamma and beta rays, he alleges, has succeeded only in ruining them. "Most people prefer their potatoes," he adds wryly, "with butter or sour cream."

He claims the project has been "a colossal assault on the federal treasury, with nothing to show for it but mutilated potatoes." The confidential House report also concludes that the irradiation experiments have been "duplicative, wasteful, unnecessary and unproductive."

Footnote: An Army spokesman said Downey's charges were irresponsible.

BOOTLEG LAETRILE: The illegal drug Laetrile, labeled "hazardous" last week by Surgeon General Julius Richmond, is being bootlegged in the shadow of the Capitol dome.

It is available, along with a smorgasbord of political propaganda, from the Liberty Lobby. This is a right-wing pressure group, which packages extremist literature under patriotic titles. It offers Laetrile, likewise, under the name "Amygdalin."

A Food and Drug official identified Amygdalin and Laetrile as essentially the same apricot-pit concoction. A Liberty Lobby spokesman, when pressed, also conceded that Amygdalin was really Laetrile under another name.

The Liberty Lobby features Amygdalin ads in its weekly newspaper, The Spotlight, which directs customers to an address three blocks from the Capital Building. Responding to the ad, our reporter, Peggy Davidson, found herself at Liberty Lobby headquarters.

She laid out money for the advertised Amygdalin. But first, she was asked to sign a form declaring: "I state that none of the (drugs) are intended for use in diagnosis, cure, mitigation, alleviation, treatment or prevention of any disease and that none of the (drugs) have been represented to me as having any value for said uses by the vendor."

Such a disclaimer, a Food and Drug spokesman informed us, does not make the sale legal. Yet the Liberty Lobby, having thus acknowledged the drug may be useless, offers 50 Amygdalin tablets for $14 or, for those wishing a high-powered dosage, 100 triple-strength tablets for $90. For customers who might want to produce their own homemade Laetrile, a pound package of unprocessed apricot kernels is offered for $4.75.

But the sale, befitting a bootleg transaction, cannot be completed over the counter. The customer merely hands over the money; the illegal tablets are delivered by mail.

The Liberty Lobby spokesman insisted his group does not sell the drug but acts merely as a "drop and ship" agent for the advertiser. The latter is identified by the urgent letters SOS. The spokesman would reveal only that the advertiser is based in California.

The relationship between the Liberty Lobby and its mysterious advertiser, however, appears to be close. For the Amygdalin tablets eventually reached our reporter in a package also containing a Liberty Lobby membership application and a brochure touting Liberty Lobby books.

A review of Liberty Lobby literature indicates the group, meanwhile, is pushing Amygdalin and Armageddon with the same enthusiasm.

YARMOLINSKY'S BACK: One of the whiz kids from the John F. Kennedy era, who was hounded out of Washington by the late FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover, will soon be returning to government as a top disarmament executive.

He is Adam Yarmolinsky, the gnarled young firebrand who used to belong to Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's inner circle. Yarmolinsky, now mellow after his 11-year absence from the Washington turmoil, will be an assistant secretary at the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

He used to be outspoken, even irritating, and he rubbed Hoover the wrong way. But it was a rumor that he might replace Hoover as the next FBI director that was the last straw.

The story can now be told for the first time how a fuming Hoover ordered an "exhaustive review of the files" on Yarmolinsky. Several FBI agents dropped everything to comb through every available scrap of information for dirt on Yarmolinsky.

They found a few liberal speeches and discovered his poetess-mother had been accused of being a left-winger. But there was no real evidence against him. This didn't stop Hoover from leaking reports that Yarmolinsky was a "radical."

The whispering campaign was potent enough that Yarmolinsky, his career wrongly blemished, left Washington in disgust to teach.

Footnote: Yarmolinsky declined to talk about the arms control job but confirmed that the whispering campaign had been a factor in his departure from government in 1966.

'We pass the savings on'

Irka's silk shirts without the 'name' still sell

By ELLIE GROSSMAN
NEW YORK (NEA) — Are you ready for this?

The silk shirt sold by Irka (EAR-ka) for $45, is essentially the same shirt selling for $100 more under the name of... but Peter Seng says we can't tell.

Well, suffice to say the designer is French, tres distingue, one of the biggies.

Seng, 36, the president of Irka, a contemporary sports-wear house named for his daughter, has a reasonable explanation.

"My father's factory in Hong Kong is the licensee for silk shirts for some of the top European designers for the American, Canadian, Japanese and Australian markets."

And when Seng started Irka in July '75 — even before, when he was president of Wayne Rogers' company — he didn't shop around for someone to produce the clothes for him. He just called home.

"Irka enjoys a fantastic reputation," he claims, "because the factory only knows how to make quality clothes and, since we own the factory, we pass the savings on to the people."

The people have shown their appreciation by buying thousands of dozens of that particular shirt, and the two-color version with contrast collar and cuff, for $54. Then there's the one-pocket shirt in the holiday line which was barely unwrapped in the showroom before it sold out.

"We're selling that one for $25. It's made of a new fabric that looks and feels like silk crepe de chine but is .100 per cent polyester crepe de chine. We developed the fabric with Japan and it's ours exclusively," Seng says.

He also says the factory does that a lot, innovates fabrics, like a crinkle nylon and "a silk angora which no one else has on the market," and all manner of blends and mixes. Even a yarn from Mongolian goats which is combined with a little nylon, spun, knotted and turned out as Irka's most expensive item, a sweater coat that sells for $160.

He wants you to understand that while silk, endless varieties of it, is Irka's strong point, there are other fabrics to be found in the pants, sweaters, skirts, etc., the company offers in sizes 4-14.

And everyone is just wild about all of them, he says. "We ship to about 500 outlets now from coast to coast, and we made the October cover of Harper's Bazaar." Macy's New York even gave Irka a large window display recently.

So who knows but one day "Irka" may be as coveted as that French designer who gets such a bundle for the same shirt and whose initials are spattered over everything.

Sweaters and shirts

At left, big rib angora dress's mohair cowl neck and wristband give it the look of a sweater underneath the dress, but it is really one piece. The dress comes in black, brown, cranberry and green. The V-necked, cable knit pullover shown with it is a combination of silk and wool with a tweed effect, in gray, beige and bordeau. Right, the silk crepe de chine floats softly in cream, white, taupe, blue, black, brown, bordeaux, gray and navy. Shown with raw silk dirndl skirt available in the same colors except for white and navy and the CPO sweater shirt, also in the same colors except for cream and navy. All by Irka.

How to prevent food spoilage

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those banjo-shaped bottles that thick salad dressings come in as it is almost impossible to completely empty them. — ALICE B.

DEAR POLLY — I have help for Arthur who wanted to know how to melt small pieces of soap. After I accumulate a lot of small pieces I cut them up so they are very small, put them in a pot, cover with water and put on a slow burner and stir until they are melted. This mixture is poured into a pan about two inches deep and as long and wide as needed to hold the melted soap. It is set aside until cold and then I cut into the desired size bars. I recently made some of these bars for a friend I was visiting and she was quite proud of her soap. — MRS. W.E.H.

DEAR POLLY — Concerning the reader who thought she ruined her skirt by pressing out the hemline with cider vinegar and water when she should have used white vinegar: I had this happen to me and I sent it to the cleaners and it came home looking like new. She should not get her hopes up as it might not work the same on her fabric but it is certainly worth a try as a last resort before discarding a good skirt. — MRS. R.H.M.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Would you please tell me when it is best to put cooked food in the refrigerator — when it has had time to completely cool off or when it is still hot and warm? I would really like to know the best way to prevent food spoilage and food poisoning so please clear this up for me. — BECKY.

DEAR BECKY — Research has proven that hot food should not be cooled to room temperature before it is put in the refrigerator as that is when the bacteria thrive. Also, putting anything very hot into the box raises its temperature and is defeating our energy-saving efforts. Hot food should be put in another pan of cold water or on some ice to cool it quickly. A large quantity could be divided to hasten the cooling process and even stirring helps speed things along. Be careful not to leave anything out too long — 30-45 minutes is the limit. — POLLY.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

Oven stew: cook ahead, reheat

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

NEW OVEN BEEF STEW
You can bake this ahead and reheat on the rangetop

1 1/4 pounds (scant) stewing beef chuck (about 1 1/2-inch cubes)
3 tablespoons corn or peanut oil
12 small onions
3 medium carrots, pared and sliced crosswise 1/4-inch thick
1/2 pound snap beans, tipped and sliced crosswise 1/4-inch thick
Several sprigs parsley, minced

1 large clove garlic, minced 1 1/2 cups water
8-ounce can or 1 cup homemade tomato sauce
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1 bay leaf

Brown the beef in the hot oil and layer it with the onions, carrots, beans, parsley and garlic in a 2 1/2 to 3-quart casserole. Stir together the remaining ingredients and add. Cover tightly and bake in a 350-degree oven until beef is very tender — 1 3/4 hours. Let stand at room temperature, tightly covered, for 10 to 20 minutes before serving. If desired, skim some of the fat from the top. Makes 6 servings.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By CRAIG WHITE

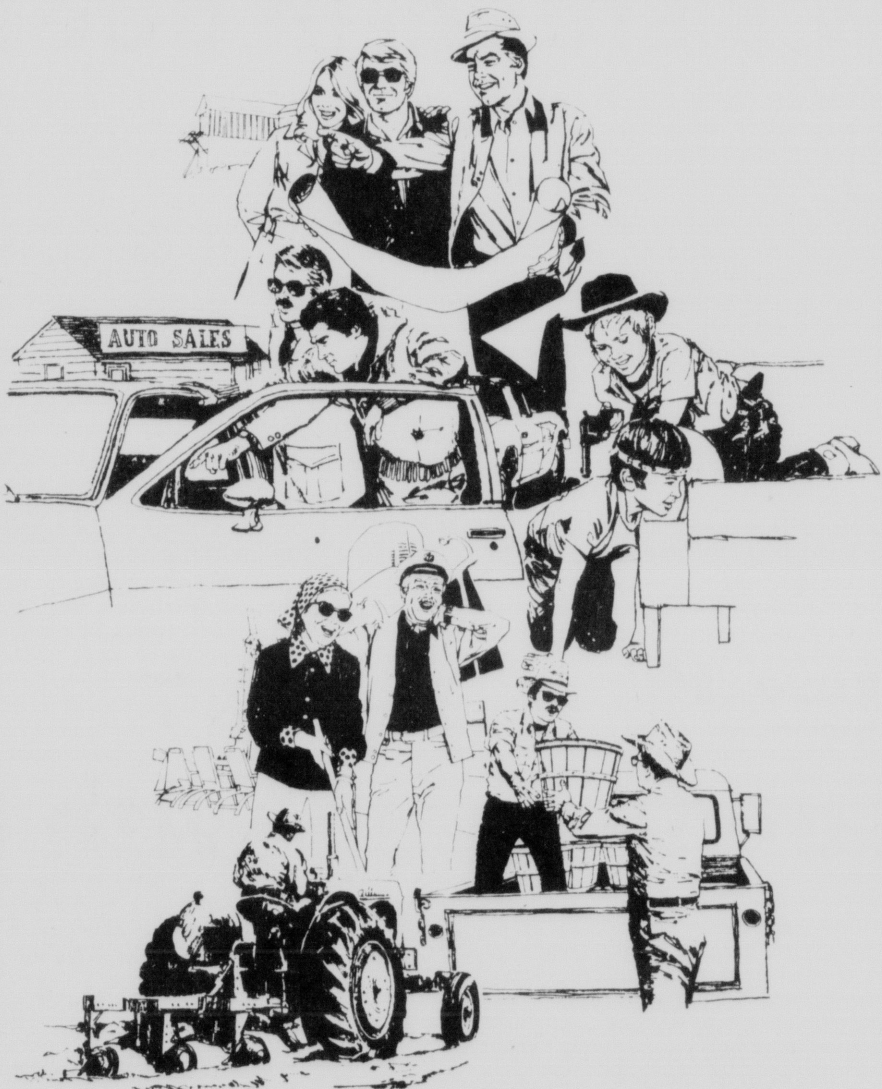

Fine high styled and high fashion cotton dresses, suits and evening gowns deserve the finest care, and you can do a lot to help your wardrobe by practicing good habits of clothes care.

Cotton fabrics are susceptible to fabric damage from perspiration, deodorants and antiperspirants. Allow them to dry before putting on a garment which touches the area of the body so treated. Frequent cleaning of your cotton garments is helpful too in preventing such damage.

Many persons ask, "does drycleaning really clean cotton?" Yes. Modern equipment and scientific methods of cleaning result in clean, fresh-looking cottons. We can also improve the appearance of your summer cottons by applying a cotton sizing during the drycleaning cycle and by careful finishing or pressing.

Remember to have your cottons cleaned before putting them away. You can rely on our experience and know-how. We're equipped to have them restored to you to "like new."

'Doesn't everyone?'

Pro golfers gear lifestyles toward aristocracy

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Golfers are the aristocrats of professional sports. They drive the swankiest cars, wear the fleeciest sweaters, enjoy the rules of decorum and a proper relationship with the public and press.

Their etiquette guidelines are dictated by Emily Post and Amy Vanderbilt. Every golf bag has a special pocket for Dale Carnegie's "How to Win Friends and Influence People." They don't write many letters to Dear Abby.

The guys who make their living trying to speed or impede the progress of that pumped-up, oblong object called a football or hit and throw the baseball— as well as those who pursue basketball and hockey careers—would do well to examine their golf counterparts and duplicate.

If such were the case, you wouldn't have the Yankees' Billy Martin shoving newsmen out of the locker room, Cincinnati's George Foster going into an isolation booth, tennis ace Ilie Nastase spurning a post-match interview and quarterback Joe Namath pulling one of those Greta Garbo "I Want to Be Alone" routines.

In today's billion-dollar sports explosion, which has created instant millionaires and made show-business idols out of skilled athletes in short pants, the par-wreckers somehow have found the key to coping with the pressures of such success.

Throw the lot of them onto a practice green and the only way you can tell them apart is the putting grip they use.

Although you have a sprinkling of Arnold Palmers and Gene Littlers, still going strong in their 40's, the accent is on youth. Most of them are lean and keen, always immaculately attired and perfectly poised.

This must be quite obvious to TV audiences, watching the players in twosomes and threesomes parading across their screens in their striped rugby shirts, blending slacks and $80 shoes.

Few people possess more lavish wardrobes. Virtually every pro golfer is subsidized by clothing manufacturers who inundate him with shirts, slacks and shoes by the gross.

Golf balls, in boxes of a dozen, are handed out like Popsicles.

"The players have a lot of natural pride in their appearance," says Tom Place, communications director of the PGA who follows the sun and the tour.

"There is a paragraph in the regulation book about appearance and it is rigidly enforced by Jack Tuthill, the tournament director. There are no beards or shaggy hair styles. This is not spelled out in writing—but it is understood. If a player on the tour is seen letting his appearance get out of line, he will be discreetly reminded by the other players.

"The players police themselves. They pair up in almost every tournament in a pro-am with the business leaders of the community. It's these people that pour money into pro golf tournaments. Players aren't about to blow it."

Place said the strict hair rules do not attempt to erode a player's independence or to suggest that a bearded golfer couldn't shoot as well as one with a shaven chin. "It's largely a voluntary thing. It's the nature of the game. The guys are natural conformists."

There is also a rule that a player cannot wear blue jeans in a tournament. "It's okay in practice, but not when there is a chance of being exposed on television," Place said.

Gary McCord, who has perhaps the biggest and most expensive collection of jeans in the business, was invited to a TV special in the Quad Cities Open at Moline, Ill. Friends feared he might show up looking like a cowboy dude. Instead he appeared in a velvet-labeled tuxedo replete with lace shirt and cuffs.

The post-match interview in golf has become one of the richest traditions of the game, enjoyed by newsmen and golfers alike. It is staged like a presidential press conference. Golfers use the occasion to fence with their critics and unload their funniest lines.

Even golf's renowned "Quiet Man," Gene Littler, gets into the spirit of the occasion.

Powerful Red Sox turn to pitching

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox lead the major leagues with 163 homers, but their pitching, supposedly the club's Achilles heel, is the big reason for a torrid streak of 15 victories in 16 games.

"We've won a lot of games in the last three weeks and the pitching has been outstanding," Boston Manager Don Zimmer said Monday night after a 2-1 victory over the Kansas City Royals before a crowd of 33,424 and a national television audience.

"We're just playing good baseball," Zimmer added. "We've had good pitching and timely hitting. We're also playing good defense. Put all three together and you've got a winning ball club."

The Red Sox moved 25 games over .500, with a 69-44 record, for the first time this season by edging the Royals, who fell two games behind in the American League West. Boston hiked its AL East lead to 3½ games over the Baltimore Orioles, with the New York Yankees remaining 4½ games back.

Reggie Cleveland, a surprise starter after Luis Tiant reported with a stiff neck, allowed just five singles in 8 2-3 innings. He then picked up the victory, his eighth in 14 decision, with the relief help of Bill Campbell, who walked two batters, forcing in a run, before retiring George Brett on a ground ball for the final out.

Cleveland and Jim Colborn hooked up in a pitching duel, something rare in Boston's chummy Fenway Park. Colborn served up a home run to George Scott at the start of the Boston fourth, then was tagged for an unearned run on Dwight Evans's eighth-inning single after an error.

"We have 48 more games to go and we're going to lose some tough ones," Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog said. "There's nothing you can do when you get beaten 2-1."

game. Henderson scored from first on a double by John Milner. (UPI)

Denny's error costly

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Apparently it wasn't enough for the St. Louis Cardinals' John Denny to experience problems with his control.

The tall right-hander issued five walks Monday night but was victimized most by a fielding lapse which provided the New York Mets the margin of a 7-4 triumph.

"I think he caught everybody by surprise," said Cards Manager Vern Rapp after witnessing a costly Denny error in judgment that ignited a four-run Mets fifth inning.

"It surprised the heck out of me and it surprised the heck out of the second baseman and shortstop too," echoed New York pilot Joe Torre. "He made a good play flagging the ball down and then threw to the wrong place."

Denny, while off to a wobbly start, yielded three walks to set up Steve Henderson's run-scoring single and John Milner's two-run double in the opening inning.

Afterward, however, the St. Louis hurler retired 11 Mets batters in order preceding a one-out walk to Lenny Randle in the fifth.

Bud Harrelson followed with a single and Bruce Boiesclair walked on four pitches before Henderson, a New York rookie, smashed a hard grounder to the mound.

As catcher Ted Simmons called for the ball, the 6-foot-3 Denny instead threw to second base and cost his team a chance for a double play that would have ended the inning.

"I didn't get a chance to talk to him," said Rapp, who lifted Denny after Milner's second two-run double followed. "Normally with that play you go to the plate."

Doug Flynn's RBI single off reliever Buddy Schultz came on the heels of the Milner blow to cap an uprising which established a 7-0 advantage for Mets starter Craig Swan, 8-7.

Cowboys should stay atop pack

By MURRAY OLDERMAN
NEA Sportswriter

Tom Landry

Prospectus

There's no apparent hitch in the Cowboys' penchant for putting together winning seasons. They've had 11 straight and been in playoffs 10 times. Now begins the Tony Dorsett era. Traded for right to pick Heisman Trophy and solve their most pressing problem — lack of breakaway runner. And they're meeting threat of encroaching age gracefully with bright rookies.

Offense

Quarterback: Until he broke bone in right hand, Roger Staubach was having super year in '76. Of course, he's 35-years-old. Danny White's behind him and drafted sleeper Glenn Carano. Rating — B+

Receiving: Billy Joe Dupree at tight end had big year; Drew Pearson was usual threat at wide receiver. But Golden Richards was hampered by bad leg and could be pressed for starting role by such kids as Butch Johnson, Percy Howard, Tony Hill. Rating — B+

Running: Completely new dimension to the attack with the arrival of Pitt's Dorsett. He's got to come through. People like Bob Newhouse, Scott Laidlaw, Charlie Young will merely complement him. But Cowboys vitally need Tony's speed, flair. Rating — B

Offensive Line: Age is creeping in, particularly at tackles, where Rayfield Wright is gimpy. Ralph Neely is creaking. And guard Blaine Nye always threatens retirement. The future is with relative kids like Burton Lawless, Herb Scott, Pat Donovan. Rating — B

Defense

Defensive Line: Lot of flexibility because of presence of Randy White, who can move in at end job in spots. Already have fine pass rush from Harvey Martin, Ed Jones. Jethro Pugh aging at tackle, but lots of depth with Larry Cole, Bill Gregory. Rating — B+

Linebackers: Won't look the same after all these years, without Lee Roy Jordan. But don't fret. Randy White was supposed to succeed him, but coach Tom Landry has tapped Bob Breunig instead. White will play strong side, vet D.D. Lewis weak side. Rating — B+

Secondary: May have the best set of safeties in NFL with Charley Waters at strong spot and Cliff Harris the free man. And Benny Barnes was revelation moving into regular corner job. Some doubt about Mel Renfro because of age (35) but he'll help. Rating — A-

Kicking, Special Teams: There was no more accurate field goal booter than Elfen Herrera, also spirited leader. And Cowboys believe backup QB Danny White can match any punter in game for range. Butch Johnson was among league leaders in returns. Rating — B+

Prediction

Way they're constituted, Cowboys will be team to beat in NFC East and in the conference in general for years. Only rash of injuries at skill positions, like to Staubach, could derail them immediately. I feel they're odds-on to top NFC East again.

Twins win slugfest 13-9

Carew's stand-in does job

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles found a way of getting Minnesota's Rod Carew out of the lineup. And now they're sorry.

Carew, the American League's leading hitting, was sitting on the Minnesota bench along with Lyman Bostock when the Twins took the field against Baltimore Monday night. Twins Manager Gene Mauch said he rested Carew "because every time he plays a full series in Baltimore his allergies act up."

Craig Kusick and Bob Gorinski started for Carew and Bostock and helped lead the Twins to a 13-9 slugfest victory over the Orioles that saw a record seven home runs soar out of Baltimore's Memorial Stadium.

After Kusick blasted two home runs and knocked in five runs, Carew batted for him in the eighth and delivered an RBI single. Gorinski smashed a two-run homer before Bostock pinch-hit for him and doubled, later coming around to score.

The victory, coupled with the New York Yankees' 6-2 win over the Chicago White Sox, boosted the Twins into the AL West lead by one-half game.

"Like anyone else views it

(the AL West race), I view it with a certain amount of uncertainty," Mauch said. "Anyone who thinks they can build up a cushion and make a cakewalk of it is kidding himself. If they haven't done it so far, they're not going to do it now. It's four good teams going at it — not great ones, but four good ones."

In other AL games Monday, Boston nipped Kansas City 2-1, California defeated Toronto 7-4, Cleveland downed Oakland 7-2, Detroit clobbered Seattle 13-1 and Milwaukee edged Texas 6-5.

Yankees 6, White Sox 2
Graig Nettles' two-run single backed the six-hit pitching of Mike Torrez, 13-10, as New York knocked Chicago out of the AL West lead. It was Torrez' fifth straight complete-game victory.

The Yanks scored single runs in the first and second innings, then sealed the White Sox' 12th loss in 16 games four-run outburst in the fourth, capped by Nettles' hit.

Tigers 13, Mariners 1
Milt May drove in five runs with a grand slam home run and a sacrifice fly while Ben Oglivie and Ron LeFlore added two-run shots in Detroit's rout of Seattle.

Angels 7, Blue Jays 4
A two-run homer by Tony

Solaita helped California's Frank Tanana overcome a shaky start and defeat Toronto, Tanana, 14-7, struck out 11 while giving up 11 hits and walking one.

Indians 7, A's 2
Rick Waits, Don Hood and Sid Monge combined to toss a six-hitter as Cleveland handed Oakland its 16th loss in its last 17 games. It was the Indians' third straight victory and seventh in its last eight games.

Brewers 6, Rangers 5
Sal Bando's run-scoring single capped a two-run rally in the bottom of the ninth inning as Milwaukee edged Texas.

Still they're above .500

Past catching up with Reds?

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Johnny Bench has a long psychological explanation for the fall of the Cincinnati Reds this year.

But in a word, they're "pooped."

"We're just mentally exhausted after five years of tough play," Cincinnati's All-Star catcher says. "It isn't the pressure of going after a third straight world championship. Those entire five years just took their toll — and it's all coming out this year."

With the Reds' 3-0 victory

PGA earnings

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — Lanny Wadkin's playoff victory in the PGA championship boosted him from 19th place to fifth in earnings this year. Wadkins, who defeated Gene Littler in Sunday's sudden death playoff, won $45,000, raising his income for the year to $138,919. Tom Watson continues to lead the earnings list with $281,478 followed by Jack Nicklaus' $265,812.

over the San Diego Padres Monday night, they managed to save themselves from falling back to the .500 mark — a modest figure not in keeping with their recent glory years.

The Reds won as many as 108 games in one season during their high-riding, five-year stretch from 1972 through 1976. They captured three National League pennants and two World Series in that period.

The Reds' victory improved their unspectacular record to 60-58 and left them 11 games behind Los Angeles after the Dodgers dropped a 6-3 decision to the San Francisco Giants Monday night.

In other National League games, the New York Mets defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 7-4 and the Houston Astros walloped the Atlanta Braves 15-3.

Another of Cincinnati's problems this year has been the off-season of Jack Billingham, one of their top pitchers. Billingham, relegated to the bullpen in recent days, was given a rare start against the Padres and responded with a two-hit performance over seven innings to gain his first victory in two months.

Billingham, 9-9, retired 16 of the first 17 batters he faced to outduel Cy Young winner Randy Jones, 5-9, and snap a personal six-game losing streak. Bench's run-scoring triple gave the Reds a 1-0 lead in the second and his 27th homer of the year, a solo shot in the fourth, made it 3-0.

Giants 6, Dodgers 3
Ed Halicki and Gary

Lavelle combined on a five-hitter and Terry Whitfield and Derrel Thomas blasted home runs to lead San Francisco over Los Angeles.

Halicki, 10-9, posted his fifth straight victory over the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

Astros 15, Braves 3
Houston scored six runs in the first inning on a two-run homer by Rob Sperring and a grand slam by Art Howe and went on to rout Atlanta behind the combined five-hit pitching of righthanders J.R. Richard and Dan Larson.

Bob Watson and Joe Ferguson each doubled home a run in a three-run second inning and Richard had a solo homer in a two-run third, staking the Astros to a commanding 11-0 lead. They added four more runs in the sixth, the key hit being a two-run triple by Terry Puhl.

Road record hurting Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, sizzling at home, would like to stop fizzling on the road.

The Pirates have won 20 of their last 21 baseball games at friendly Three Rivers Stadium. Their season record at home is a remarkable 45-15.

"There's no question about it, that's phenomenal," said Manager Chuck Tanner, whose team is in second place in the National League East.

But Pittsburgh, starting a three-game series with the Chicago Cubs today, has a paltry 24-34 road record — a .414 winning percentage.

To put that in perspective, last year visiting National League teams averaged .474.

Pitcher John Candelaria thinks there's a different attitude on the road.

"It seems like we always feel we can win playing at home," he said. "Even if we're losing in the late innings, we know we can come back. I wish we had that feeling on the road."

Tanner isn't worried, though.

"It's what you do overall that really counts," he said. "We're winning more than we're supposed to at home and that makes up for us losing more than we're supposed to on the road. A lot of teams would like to be where we are right now."

The question remains: why are the Pirates so hot at home and so cold everywhere else?

The answers, it seems, are physical, mental and just plain luck.

"I have no excuses — you win or you lose," said Tanner. "But there have been a couple of times this season when we were hampered by injuries on the road."

Most memorable was against St. Louis on June 28 when reserve infielder Marlo Mendoza was called on to pitch because the Pittsburgh bullpen had been depleted.

Injuries and player absences have not seemed to hurt the Pirates at home, however.

They beat the New York Mets five times over the weekend without starters Frank Taveras and Al Oliver, who had been suspended; Willie Stargell, on the disabled list with an elbow nerve problem, and Bill Robinson, out on Sunday with a virus.

Tanner believes the morale boost the Pirates get at home is a major factor in their success.

"There's no question about it, the fans really help at home," he said. "I think they help the players rise to the occasion."

Tanner figures the breaks, too, may have helped produce the disparity in the Pirates' home and away records.

"The first year I managed the Chicago White Sox, it seemed every team we played had its hottest streak just as we were coming in," he said. "The next year, every time we came to town they were having their worst time."

"There's no real answer to this question. It all comes down to 162 games, and that's what counts."

Atlantic Conference to add ref

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Atlantic Coast Conference will add a third referee to the basketball court this season in an experiment that NCAA officials hope will spread to other conferences.

Using three officials instead of two in a game has been tried elsewhere—by the National Basketball Association and in the Big Ten Conference, for example.

But for the ACC experiment, conference leaders rewrote the on-court responsibilities for each official with an eye towards streamlining their jobs and the game itself.

"The problem everywhere they've tried it before is with the divided responsibilities. It's so complicated," said Norvell Neve, ACC supervisor of officials. "We've developed a new set of mechanisms that we think make it rather simple for the officials."

Ed Steitz, athletic director at Springfield (Mass.) College and editor of the NCAA's basketball rules, says if the ACC experiment works, other conferences may follow suit.

"My wish is that all our conferences would go to this," he said. "The game has changed. It's fast and, with multiple defenses, we need the third official.

Neve said his method will keep one official under the basket, watching for violations much the same as he would with just one partner. The second official will move along the sidelines from the halfcourt line to nearer the circle. His job too, will be much the same.

A third official will be on the opposite side of the court, between the second man and mid-court, watching for fouls in his area and away from the ball, Neve said. When the ball changes sides, the first and second officials will exchange duties, while the third will move a few steps across the line and continue watching for the same thing.

"It's my feeling that with this system, you can work a two-man game one night and a three-man game the next, and it won't bother you," Neve said. "But really, that's the problem. We need to do it nightly. Not just when we play in the ACC or Big Ten."

The ACC will use the third official for conference games and games where the game contract does not call for the nonACC opponent to bring an official. For intersectional games where the opponent brings a referee, there will be just two.

Steitz said the Big 10's experiment reduced the total number of fouls and made players and coaches on the bench more well-behaved under the closer scrutiny.

"It will also do much to eliminate the biggest problem in basketball, the uncalled fouling away from the ball," Steitz said. "Now there's mayhem away from the ball and the coaches are all screaming about it."

Frazier willing to fight Ali

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Former heavyweight champ Joe Frazier says there's no rabbit's blood in his veins. If current king Muhammad Ali wants a fourth fight, Frazier says he's ready.

Frazier said Monday night that he had read news accounts from Europe quoting Ali as saying he would be willing to fight Frazier again. Ali holds a 2-1 edge in their meetings, which are regarded as boxing classics.

"When I was there I gave everybody their shot," Frazier said, "and when I was coming up I fought them all. I didn't bypass anybody. He made the statement, and I'm not going to run away from it."

"You know I ain't got no rabbit's blood in me. If the guy wants to take me on again, you know I'm not going to run," added Frazier, who now performs in a night club act but still runs a gym here.

"I'm booked up for maybe two or three months, but if the champ says he wants to face Ol' Smokey again, I'm ready," said Frazier.

"I understand he said in Europe that he would he give me one more shot. I'll go back at it again, and I'll get back out of it with my head on my shoulders again."

Frazier, now 33 and weighing 228 pounds, said he works out at least every other day at his gym and could be in shape for a rematch within two or three months.

Frazier also said he's not afraid of critics who might accuse him of seeking a rematch simply for the money.

"I don't think that anybody that knows Smokin' Joe Frazier will say that," he said. "I'm doing it because I'm sincere about it."

"I've been in the fighting business 17 years. I'm sincere about my business. It's not the money. It's something that I like."

Frazier scored a fifth-round knockout over Jimmy Ellis in February, 1970, to gain the heavyweight title after Ali had been stripped of the crown for his refusal to enter military service.

Frazier lost the title in January, 1973, when he was knocked out by George Foreman in the second round at Kingston, Jamaica. Frazier has been knocked out only three times in his career.

Ali decided Frazier in 12 rounds at New York in January, 1974, and scored a 14th round technical knockout over Frazier six months later in the "Thrilla in Manila."

Frazier announced his retirement after he was knocked out a second time by Foreman in the fifth round of a fight at Uniondale, N.Y., in June, 1976.

Chicago gives All-Pro tackle contract without option clause

By The Associated Press

Wally Chambers had one contract torn up and got a new one. Ed White doesn't like his and would like to see it in tatters. In lieu of that, he says he'll quit.

The Chicago Bears gave Chambers, their All-Pro defensive lineman, a new 1977 contract in which there is no option clause. That means that Chambers can become a free agent at the end of the season.

Minnesota guard Ed White isn't satisfied with his contract and wants a hefty salary raise. White says he is retiring rather than play for the Vikings under his present terms.

Chambers, the Bears' No. 1 draft choice in 1973, has been sidelined during the preseason with an injured knee. Coach Jack Pardee, who says Chambers did not work with weights in the off-season to strengthen the knee, demoted Chambers to special team duty.

Chicago general manager Jim Finks admitted the Bears are taking a risk that Chambers will go elsewhere after the season.

"We want Wally Chambers to have a great year," Finks said. "If we are to be successful we have to have Wally playing great football. If Wally has the year we expect of him, he'll be compensated and stay in Chicago. We have no wish to lose Wally Chambers."

Chambers added that his goal "is not to leave Chicago."

White left Minnesota after the Vikings refused to discuss a new contract with him. Vikings general manager Mike Lynn said the team "does not negotiate with players who leave camp," which White did on Aug. 2.

"I have deep feelings for the Viking team and the great fans of the area," said White, an eight-year veteran. "Since the Vikings have not offered me any of the concessions that other players have recently received, I feel I have no alternative but to retire."

Elsewhere in the National Football League, Atlanta rookie quarterback June Jones changed his mind about retiring. He left the Falcons on Saturday but was expected back in camp today.

Cleveland cut kick return specialist Darryl Brown and signed running back James McAlister. McAlister played three years with the Philadelphia Eagles, rushing for 265 yards in 68 attempts last season.

Detroit picked up punter Bob Bialik, who was released by Cincinnati earlier this month, and placed punter Chuck Ramsey and running back Wayne Moseley on waivers.

Tampa Bay waived 12th round draft choice Chip Sheffield, a wide receiver, and signed Blanchard Carter, an offensive tackle.

Frazier lost the title in January, 1973, when he was knocked out by George Foreman in the second round at Kingston, Jamaica. Frazier has been knocked out only three times in his career.

Ali decided Frazier in 12 rounds at New York in January, 1974, and scored a 14th round technical knockout over Frazier six months later in the "Thrilla in Manila."

Nebraska staff seeks starting quarterback

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska's main football questions of the approaching autumn concern who will emerge from a quintet of quarterback candidates and how well that top signal-caller will fare.

"The quarterback thing is probably going to be a trial and error situation," Coach Tom Osborne said. "I wouldn't be at all surprised if the starter the first game isn't the starter at the end of the season."

Osborne doesn't have a lot of breathing space on the schedule to make the right choice from among Randy Garcia, Tom Sorley, Ed Burns, Tim Hager and Jeff Quinn.

After a Sept. 10 home opener against Washington State, the Cornhuskers entertain Bear Bryant's Alabama team the second game.

Osborne said the schedule, which also lists Baylor, Indiana, Kansas State, Iowa State, Colorado, Oklahoma State, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, includes eight potential top 20 teams in the national rankings.

Garcia may have the inside track for quarterback, as he was the 1976 backup to Vince Ferragamo. Ferragamo led Nebraska to a 9-3-1 record with a 27-24 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl win over tough Texas Tech.

Garcia's four-of-17 statistics in the passing department in 1976, plus 78 yards rushing in 24 carries, provides a shortage of game data on which to judge his potential. But the other quarterback candidates have even less game experience.

Returning running backs include Rick Berns, last year's leader with 972 yards, and veterans Monte Anthony and Dodie Donnell.

Donnell gained 520 yards last season and Anthony has a three-year total of 2,112 yards, despite injury problems.

Despite the questionmark at quarterback and the solid running corps, Osborne has yet to say whether he is looking toward the aerial or ground game as the key this fall.

"We may come out one game and look like Ohio State and only throw the ball five times," he said. "The next week we might look like Stanford or California and throw a lot."

The Huskers are working on replacements for top receivers such as Dave Shamblin, Chuck Malito and Bobby Thomas and defensive stars such as tackles Mike Fultz and Ron Pruitt.

The new defensive coach hired from Kansas, Lance Van Zandt, says that latter search is tough, but he sees potential and some depth.

"I don't think that we have what I'd classify as a first-round (professional) draft choice right now," Van Zandt said. He said depth was good at end and linebacker, adequate in the line and he's searching for it in the secondary.

Osborne, starting his fifth season as head coach, has a 37-10-2 record. He said continuing or improving that pace depends on the team jelling.

Frazier lost the title in January, 1973, when he was knocked out by George Foreman in the second round at Kingston, Jamaica. Frazier has been knocked out only three times in his career.

Ali decided Frazier in 12 rounds at New York in January, 1974, and scored a 14th round technical knockout over Frazier six months later in the "Thrilla in Manila."

Benito Garozzo of Italy has long been regarded as one of the best, if not the best bridge player of today. Here we see him picking up an extra 300 points against a four-spade, doubled contract.

South led back dummy's last diamond and Benito played low again! Now declarer went into deep thought. Obviously, West held the 10? Finally, South decided that Benito had started with four diamonds to the 10. He stuck in his nine of diamonds and West collected one of the surprise tricks of all time, when he won a trick with the 10.

Ask the Jacobys

A Louisiana reader wants to know if we respond two notrump to partner's opening one-diamond bid with: ♠ A Q x x ♥ K J x ♦ x x ♣ K x x x. The answer is a decided "No". We respond one spade. We can get to notrump later on. If we respond two notrump we may lose the spade suit.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Prayer for child matches parent's

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a Prayer for Parents. I thought it was beautiful. And now I have composed a prayer for children. I hope you will give it equal time. — Young And Wishing God in heaven, I am young and don't understand what it is like to be a parent, but it must be very hard because so many people are failing at it these days. I pray for Mom and Dad, God, that You will help them to be good parents — strong in the ways you want them to be, so I can look up to them with admiration and feel confident that their instruction is right.

Help me, dear Lord, to understand my parents. Remind me that when I don't get my way it is because they love me and not because they want to be mean or deprive me of anything. Help me, God, when I become stubborn and refuse to listen, to accept the fact that they have wisdom and experience because they were once teenagers but I have never been a parent.

Put in my heart the respect and consideration they deserve for their years of hard work and sacrifice. They raised me the best way they knew how. Let me not repay them with grief or shame. Rather help me to give them obedience, respect, forgiveness and love. Most of all, God, while I still have them here on earth, help me to appreciate my parents.

Dear Young And Wishing: You may be young but you are wise beyond your years. Thanks so much for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are invited often to eat dinner at his brother's house. His wife is a nice person and we all get along fine. But she is a terrible housekeeper and to make matters worse, they have a couple of huge cats that have the run of the place.

A few weeks ago my sister-in-law put a can of cat food on the kitchen cabinet — next to the meal she had prepared for us. The big Tom jumped up on the cabinet, walked over the dinner rolls and swished his tail through the meatballs and cabbage. My husband and I both saw this and we lost our appetites completely.

Since that incident, my husband refuses to eat at their house and I am running out of excuses. He says I can't tell them the real reason because it would only start trouble. Any suggestions, Ann? — Crossfire In Nameless City

Dear Fire: Just say your husband has developed a preference for eating at home (which is no lie) and while you aren't crazy about the idea there's nothing you can do but comply with his request.

Dear Ann: Yesterday I was gasping and heavy breathing on the line. I thought either someone was having a heart attack or this was one of those "funny calls."

After I hung up I wondered if people who are in trouble know they can dial 0 for Operator and get help immediately. Even in the dark, a person who can't find his glasses can dial 0 & the last digit on the phone. Knowing this will give folks a sense of security. Tell 'em, Annie. — Oshkosh

Dear Oshkosh: You told 'em, by gosh, and I thank you.

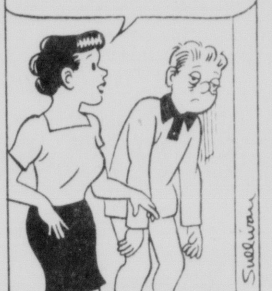

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers's booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Send 50 cents in coin along with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Ill. 60611. c. 1977 Field Enterprises, Inc.

4 1/2-hour 'swim'

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — James Maschler took a long swim in the Missouri River — 11 miles and 4 1/2 hours.

Maschler, 35, Liberty, Mo., staggered ashore early Monday near a city power plant construction site in northwestern Kansas City, Kan.

Maschler was presumed drowned Sunday night when he failed to return to friends on shore, and authorities searched throughout the night without success.

Maschler said he was caught by the current and carried downstream but managed to head for the bank on a piece of styrofoam after spying the power plant.

Haley to receive honorary degree

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Author Alex Haley will be awarded an honorary doctoral degree during the summer commencement exercises at Brigham Young University.

Haley, author of the best-seller "Roots," will receive an honorary doctorate Friday along with Salt Lake City business man Joseph Rosenblatt.

Haley's book, which traces his ancestry through American slaves back to African origins, was made into a 12-hour television series watched by an estimated 100 million persons.
